For the first time Deutsche Post AG is allowing a behind-the-scenes look into its Annual General Meeting

Come May 18 some 5,000 shareholders will experience the Deutsche Post AG Annual General Meeting live in Cologne's Kölnarena. But starting now you and all other shareholders can get a glimpse behind the scenes on the Internet: for the first time this DAX 30 company is giving a real look into how an annual general meeting is prepared and organized. Films, photographs and background reports can be found online at www.dpwn.de and www.dpwn.com.

This kind of event is a large-scale organizational project demanding months of preparation, and construction work at the Kölnarena has been underway since May 6. Deutsche Post will be reporting online in both German and English, showing how such a large-scale event is organized, how the Group has gone about preparing for the event, where troubleshooting is still needed and other behind-the-scenes tidbits before and during the Annual General Meeting. The shareholders, of course, will also have their say.
