

Food Application & Development Centers

Brenntag in Poland

The Food Application & Development Center is located in Zgierz, Central Poland. Based within the impressive 13,000-square-meter Logistics Center of Brenntag Polska, this modern facility is a complex of divisions focused on the key food sectors. The Center operates a unique technological park equipped with state-of-the-art devices, and provides pilot production and analysis of end products, offering a complete service for our customers. Zgierz is one of twenty locations of Brenntag in Poland, encompassing the central warehouse for most specialized products for the food industry in Poland as well as the headquarters for the Polish Food Industry Division.

When was the Center opened?

The Food Application & Development Center in Zgierz was officially opened in September 2014. Its history, however, goes back to 2004, when the first food application kitchen was established in Zgierz.

“The food industry is one of our strategic focus areas in Europe, and we have dedicated facilities for the support of our business partners throughout the continent. With the opening of a Food Application & Development Center that is centrally located in Poland, we can get closer to our customers in Central Eastern Europe, and consolidate our regional food competence in one place.”

Karsten Beckmann, CEO of Brenntag Europe, Middle East and Africa, at the opening in 2014.

What happens at the Food Application & Development Center?

Our experts work closely with customers to select the right ingredients and additives for their products. They also develop bespoke formulations tailored to local tastes and cultures. We work to support our customers in meeting their technical and cost-related needs, conduct specific projects on product improvement or product innovation, and provide formulation support and development of concepts. To ensure that the highest standards are met at all times, the Food Application & Development Center complies with the procedures of ISO 9001:2015 and HACCP quality management systems.

Poland's Food Application & Development Center is split into three divisions, each dedicated to a key sector of the food industry:

- Beverages
- Bakery and confectionery
- Culinary and meat processing

Is there anything else to know?

The Food Application & Development Center also contains modern offices and conference facilities. By hosting regular technical workshops, individual training sessions, and seminars, we are able to share our expertise, passion, and experience in food applications, helping our customers compete in today's market.
