Berlin businessman secures over half of the Boris Becker auction with half a million euros - casting a signal against banking arbitrariness

Berlin (ots) -

Berlin-based entrepreneur Christian Krawinkel, CKV asset management buys over half of the sought-after Boris Becker Memorabilia for EUR 492.479, including the Bambi for the Wimbledon winner "Man of the Year 1985".

This is done for a special reason, because the bustling Entrepreneur is willing to hand over the trophies of the German sportidol's life work in an orderly financial planning back to his deserved possessions, as a clear sign against the ubiquitous banking arbitrariness.

"I myself experienced the greed of certain financial institutions and dubious offers donors made at one point in my life and consider it outrageous how the life work of a celebrated national hero of sports becomes tattered and publicly sold off down to the socks. I want to send a signal against that."

As clear auction winner Christian Krawinkel obtains the majority share of the auction.
