Sweeter than chocolate

A promise on the wrist

Valentine's Day is all about love, and so are NOMOS watches—as they are reliable companions for life.

GLASHÜTTE, JANUARY 2021. February 14 is Valentine's Day: Not even the strictures of international lockdowns can prevent the world from celebrating this day of love. Everyone has their unique way of showing affection, and they will show it this year too: chancellors are planning to surprise their better-halves with red roses at home, the lawyers will leave work early to cook lavish dinners for two, and English literature students have already penned their poems of devotion onto boxes of chocolate.

Others will celebrate love the best way they know how: With gifts from NOMOS Glashütte, mechanical wristwatches in large and small sizes, manual and self-winding. There is room on the reverse for a personal message, in the form of an engraving. It's promises of loyalty like these that make Valentine's Day special, and with a NOMOS watch these indelible promises are set in stainless steel for a lifetime, reliable forever.

Watches from NOMOS Glashütte are available individually or in pairs, and can be found in select retail stores as well as online—with delivery in time for February 14—at nomos-glashuette.com.

We have plenty more to share with you: About our watches, the 175-year-old tradition of Glashütte watchmaking, and love. If you have any questions, if you would like an interview or more images—just get in touch, we're always delighted to hear from you.

Love is in the air: Valentine's Day is celebrated around the world on February 14. For the romantics among us, it's an opportunity to make a grand gesture—with a gift for a lifetime, such as a watch from NOMOS Glashütte.

The ultimate power couple: Minimatik and Minimatik champagne. Both are powered by the ultra-thin automatic NOMOS caliber DUW 3001.

A grand romantic gesture—and a gift for life: Orion 33 rose from NOMOS Glashütte.

The love of a lifetime—and as reliable as they come: Orion 38 from NOMOS Glashütte.

If you insist, we also have rings from NOMOS Glashütte: the NOMOS sundial.
