Watches for the season: Orion 33 gold and Orion 38 silver

Gift with style

Orion, the classic from watchmaker NOMOS Glashütte, is now available with dials in silver and gold. Both NOMOS watches are surprisingly affordable.

GLASHÜTTE, NOVEMBER 25, 2021. These are watches for a special time. The famous Glashütte classic, Orion, is now available with dials in silver and gold. Orion 33 gold and Orion 38 silver, to give their full names, make the perfect watches for gifting—beautiful, valuable, but not exorbitant. Subtle, with a hint of glamour. Just when it's needed? Who knows, we may revive the Golden Twenties after all. A hundred years ago, people celebrated life and an economic boom. Then, just like now, people were looking forward to diving headlong back into life.

Orion harks back to the original Glashütte master design. Not the minimalist design of recent years, but rather a watch made the way aspiring master watchmakers did at the Glashütte School of Watchmaking—with a silver case, hand-polished dial, and indexes applied by hand. Available in two sizes, these glamorous yet restrained watches can be worn by everyone. The smaller version flaunts a feminine gold, while its larger silver cousin, bearing golden indexes, can be worn by men and women alike. Their dials are polished and galvanized (gold- and white silver-plated, respectively), with faceted applied indexes. Perfect to gift together, but naturally each is also available individually. What is more: Both versions offer the option of custom engravings.

Do you want golden times for your media, more tips for great gifts? Just ask. If you would like photos of our watches, more information, or simply want to see what we do in Glashütte, we will be delighted to help and would love to hear from you.

In anticipation of the Golden Twenties: Orion 33 gold and Orion 38 silver. Classic, with just the right touch of glamour, an ideal match for wedding rings and jewelry. These watches hark back to the original Glashütte master design—and yet retain their modernity.

A statement piece with a history: Mechanical watches have been made in Glashütte for 175 years. The Orion 33 by NOMOS harks back to an early Glashütte masterpiece—a simple watch with a highly polished dial and applied indexes. What was changed: The case is now made of steel instead of silver, and the dial in this version is gold-plated.

Celebrations have their season and that's when Orion 33 gold makes its entry: A classic feminine watch that perfectly combines gold with silver. The ideal companion for jewelry. "33" stands for the small diameter of 33 millimeters—made for delicate wrists.

Shown here with a view of the masterpiece, Glashütte craftsmanship with a tradition stretching back 175 years. The back is made from sapphire crystal glass. Those wishing to gift the watch with an engraving have 65 characters on the case back for a personal message.

Gift with flair? Easy, if you choose this NOMOS watch. Orion is an original Glashütte master design to accompany the style of the Golden Twenties, while also being suitable for everyday wear. A watch for any occasion.

Close-up: The small seconds dial, applied indexes, rhodium-plated hands. The dial is gold-plated. A combination of silver or steel and gold make Orion 33 by NOMOS Glashütte the perfect watch to match jewelry of any precious metal.

Big or small, splendidly elegant! Orion 33 with a gold-plated dial (faceted, rhodium-plated applied indexes) and Orion 38 with a white silver-plated domed dial (gold-plated indexes). The sapphire crystal glass of the watch is also domed.

Perfectly designed for men, but no less so for women—perhaps a watch for two who share their lives? Either way, Orion 38 silver by NOMOS Glashütte is both glamorous and subtle. Only a few watches (or people) can carry off this feat, but Orion does. The hand-wound movement, which powers many fine watches, is the highly acclaimed caliber Alpha, from watchmaker NOMOS Glashütte.

Orion 38 silver can do silver anytime. But it can also do gold, as evidenced by its golden indexes and hands. The perfect companion for a wedding ring. This classic hand-wound model features a dial that is elegantly domed, galvanized, and polished—which is the secret to its beauty.

What should I wear today? Orion silver is perfect for all occasions; Monday to Sunday, at the office and in the evening. This NOMOS watch has mastered the art of bridging worlds. It harks back to the Glashütte masterpiece—the watch which apprentice watchmakers were required to make in Glashütte to become a master. A surprising fact, considering its very modern design.
