RENK to supply another 42 transmissions for AJAX platform to Latvia

RENK to supply another 42 transmissions for AJAX platform to Latvia

- Order underscores high level of confidence in RENK's cutting-edge technology and reliability

Augsburg / July 15, 2025 – RENK Group AG, a leading provider of propulsion solutions for the military and civilian sectors, is supplying a further 42 HSWL-256B gear units for the AJAX infantry fighting vehicle to Latvia. The Baltic state is thus exercising its option for additional transmissions shortly after placing its initial order. This brings the total number of transmissions ordered from Latvia alone to 84.

The expansion of the order underscores the NATO country's great confidence in RENK's product portfolio. The HSWL-256B is already in service in British Armed Forces vehicles and has proven itself in the field of mission-critical drive technology. The transmission is primarily used in the 35 to 45 tonne weight class and impresses with its 800 kW (1100 hp), robustness and compact design.

At the beginning of the month, RENK added two new countries to its existing customer base for the AJAX gearbox with Latvia and another international partner.

The transmissions will be manufactured at the company's headquarters in Augsburg, with delivery scheduled to begin in 2026.
